

JEEP WARRIOR RACE, SOUTH AFRICA'S LARGEST OBSTACLE COURSE RACE

“You will get wet and dirty, you will be laughing and crying, but all in all, you will have a blast”.

This is the motto of the Jeep Warrior Race, that witnessed the add resins KwaZulu-Natal husband/wife team, Scott and Sue Maynard partake in this past weekend. Also participating in this gruelling event were the ladies and mens Fibrebound Warrior Teams – congratulations! Tough participants associated with a strong brand - Derakane™.

Fibrebound Warrior Team : L-R : Louis, Johan, Hilson & Zane

The Jeep Warrior Race burst onto the scene in 2013 and immediately spearheaded the meteoric rise of obstacle racing in South Africa. It quickly grew to up to 9000 participants per event and remains at the forefront of the growth spurt in the fledgeling sport of obstacle racing with its larger than life obstacles and innovative courses to challenge South Africans.

add resins Warrior Team : Scott & Sue Maynard

According to the Jeep Warrior Race, one of the reasons why obstacle racing is so popular, is because anyone can participate. All you need is a pair of old running shoes and a great sense for adventure. What makes obstacle racing unique is that it is one of only a few opportunities for athletes from different sporting codes, like cycling, trail running, crossfit, karate, judo, rugby, soccer, hockey, etc get to compete against each other on a level playing field.

For more information : www.warrior.co.za